This paper provides an excellent review of the empirical cross-country growth literature. My main comment is to update several references that by now have been published. For example, the following papers are now published

The authors should also update the reference for the human capital data with